About

- I'm a self-taught artist. I love color and find it heals my soul. I've been dabbling with several mediums over the past 16 years.

Most recently I paint abstract art with acrylics. If my art inspires someone, I'm thrilled, but I find the process of creating a piece is where the true joy lies for me. I try to stay "out of the way" when creating and let the art tell its story.

Artist Statement

I believe color heals. I create art for the purpose of providing a break from the worries of the world, and possibly inspiring the viewer in some way. A moment spent looking at something colorful or unusual is a moment well spent.
