About

- Myrna Gudeman, a retired elementary school teacher who loved teaching art to her students, now creates art at her home in Florence, Oregon.

She studied printmaking, watercolor, pottery, and weaving previously in her life, but her primary focus currently is on oil painting.

She's studied under Alfredo Dolezal, of Central Oregon, and John Leasure, of Florence, Oregon.

She also enjoys reading about the great master painters of the past. She considers herself a life-long student of art.

Artist Statement

Upon moving to Florence after retiring, I resumed my life-long interest in oil painting.

Painting gives me a sense of peace, and my eyes thrive on the vibrancy of the colors.

I'm always striving to learn more as I pursue painting realistic and abstract subjects.
